WILLIAM PITT KELLOGG.*1831—1918.

William Pitt Kellogg, was born at Orwell, Vt., Dec. 8, 1831, removed to Illinois in 1848, studied law at Peoria, was admitted to the bar in 1854, and began practice in Fulton county. He was a candidate for Presidential Elector on the Republican ticket in 1856 and 1860, being elected the latter year. He was appointed Chief Justice of Nebraska in 1861, but he resigned to accept the colonelcy of the Seventh Illinois Cavalry. Failing health caused his retirement from the army after the battle of Corinth. In 1865 he was appointed Collector of the Port at New Orleans. Thereafter he became a conspicuous figure in both Louisiana and National politics, serving as United States Senator from Louisiana from 1868 to 1871, and as Governor from 1872 to 1876, during the stormiest period of reconstruction, and making hosts of bitter personal and political enemies as well as warm friends. An unsuccessful attempt was made to impeach him in 1876. In 1877 he was elected a second time to the United States Senate by one of two rival Legislatures, being awarded his seat after a bitter contest. At the close of his term (1883) he took his seat in the lower house to which he was elected in 1882, serving until 1885. While retaining his residence in Louisiana, Mr. Kellogg has spent much of his time of late years in Washington City.

Mr. Kellogg died in Washington, D. C., August 10, 1918. He was the last survivor of the Lincoln presidential electors of 1860.
